ASCG continues business class training services for business class British Airways Subsidiary L'Avion OpenSkies

Active Solutions Consulting Group continues to extend training services to L'Avion OpenSkies Cabin Crew, including conversion and current training in its continued efforts to embrace the merging needs of the newly amalgamated airline.

L'Avion, which was an airline based in Paris, France, operates business class only, long-haul services between Orly Airport, Paris and Newark Liberty International Airport in the USA. The airline, which was purchased by British Airways has now merged with OpenSkies, an all business class airline owned by British Airways.

ASCG provided a complete training solution to OpenSkies since the inception of the airline and now continues to build on this supplier relationship under the new L'Avion OpenSkies brand, with training in Paris and London.

Donahue Cortes, Group Director and owner of Active Solutions Consulting group and the Active Aviation training brand said "the team here are delighted to continue close relations with the Operator which is a perfect example of how our quality assured training programmes and long term commitment and dedication to our customers has enabled the continuation of this contract".
